

Edinburgh Permaculture Design Course 2017

lead teacher : James Chapman

The Course.

This Permaculture Design Course (PDC) is split into 6 modules. All of James' PDC's are accredited with the Permaculture Association of Britain. www.permaculture.org.uk

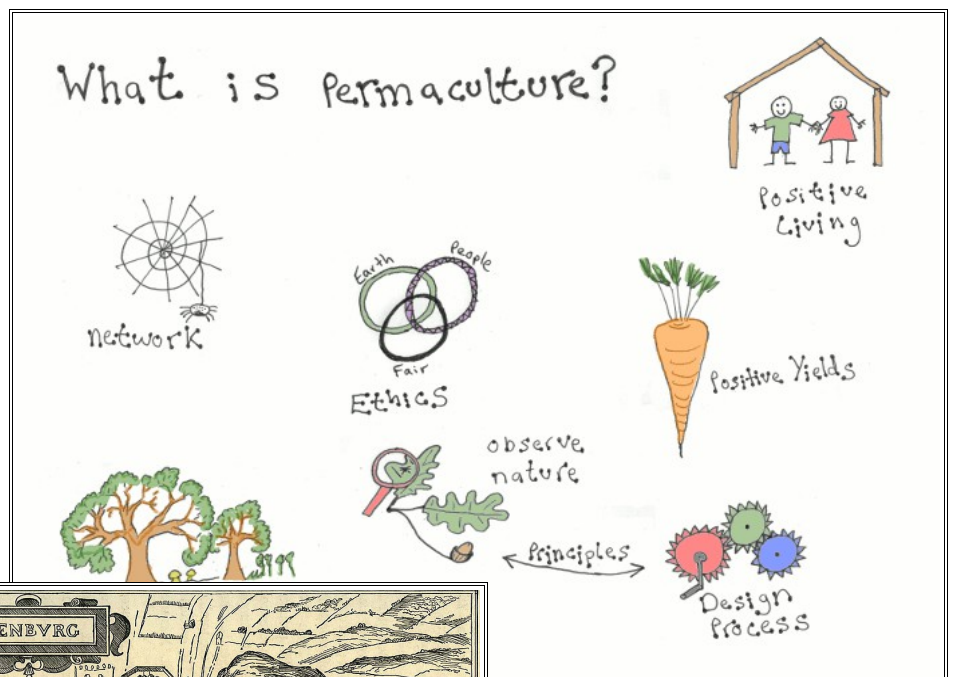

All days will run from 9.30am to 5pm

Module 1/Introduction

21+22 Jan 2017

Topics include;

- *What is permaculture?
- *Ethics
- *Mollison principles
- *Learning from nature
- *Design Process
- *Zones and sectors
- *Input-Output Analysis

Module 2

11+12 Feb 2017

Topics include;

- *Observation tools
- *Mapping
- *Patterns
- *Climate and micro-climates
- *Trees

Module 3

11+12 March 2017

Topics include;

- *Soil
- *Permaculture and organic gardening.
- *Forest gardening
- *Practical

Module 4

8+9 April 2017

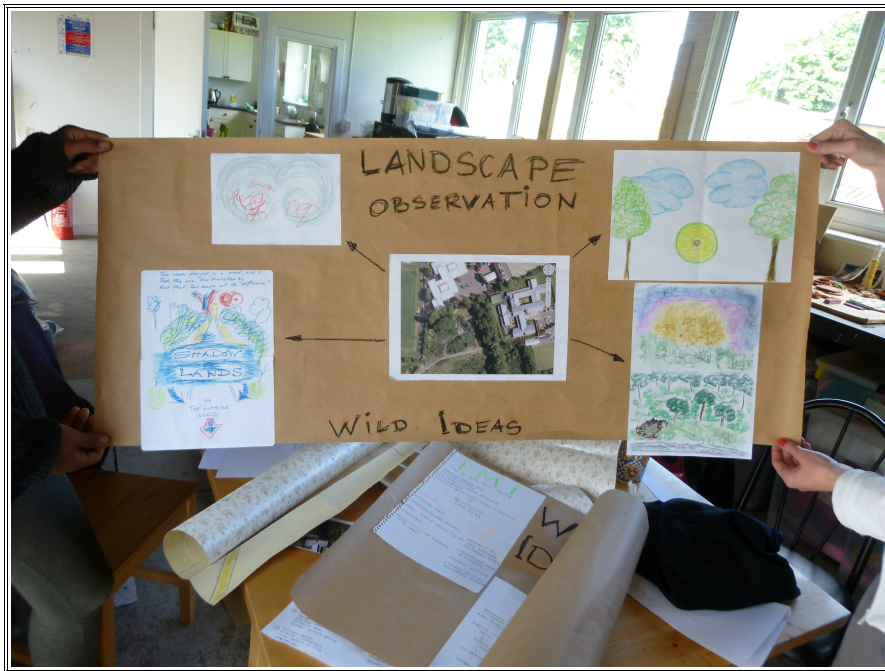

- *Design tools
- *Design examples
- *Social systems/contexts
- *Built environment
- *Resource choices
- *Money
- *Ecological footprint

Module 5

13 + 14 May 2016

- *Visit established permaculture sites
- *Water
- *Starting Design Projects

Module 6
 10 + 11 June 2016
 *Design project
 *Design Presentation
 *Next steps
 *Celebration

Feedback from last year's course

The average score for my latest
 Permaculture Design Course was

9.6/10

www.nonstuff.co.uk

Swapping modules

If you cannot attend any of the modules, it is possible to swap onto the Glasgow course. This runs the weekend before ours. Swapping incurs a £10 admin fee.

It is also possible to attend any of Graham Bell's modules in coldstream. You can find his dates on www.grahambell.org

If you have already attended a 2 day introduction course run by James, Lusi Alderslowe or Graham Bell, you can join in from module 2. Your fees can be reduced proportionately.

The main teacher

James Chapman completed his Diploma in Applied Permaculture in 2010. He has many years experience in living with and applying permaculture principles and ethics, having been involved in woodland management, woodwork, timber framing and a time working in a Community Compost Project. James has also been involved and instrumental in the design of large, complex and complicated land designs whilst living in a communal living space. His teaching methods are interactive, experiential, friendly and inclusive. His interest in art and creativity means he uses lots of visual tools and the creative process with his students. His courses are fun and relaxed, which allows time for the students to absorb the information and participate fully in an exchange of learning. James is particularly interested in including people who have English as their second language and those who have dyslexia. He is a keen promoter of living and working towards a sustainable and regenerative future and is one of Scotland's busiest permaculture teachers.

James and his family have recently bought a 7 acre site at Leadburn, 10 miles south of Edinburgh.

There will also be a selection of other teachers throughout the course.

Venues

This year we will be using a variety of venues.

From Jan – April we will be meeting at venues within Edinburgh.

In May and June we will be based at Willowburn Lea which is 10 miles south of Edinburgh.

All the venues will have good public transport links and you'll get plenty of notice where we'll be meeting.

Travel Expenses

When travelling to field trips, we tend to car share between everyone and pay the driver for vehicle costs. These are not included in your fees. In the past this has come to approx £15 for the whole course.

Food

We invite everyone to bring a lunch to share or their own packed lunch. Tea and coffee will be available.

Fees

The course fees have a sliding scale depending on your financial situation. These now include a £20 accreditation fee with the Permaculture Association of Britain.

Full Course Fee	Fee per modules	Household income per year
£260 (limited to 3 places)	£40	Benefits or under £5000
£440	£70	£5000 to £15000
£620	£100	£15,000 to £30,000
£740	£120	Over £30,000 Or, anyone paying with grant money Or, anyone attending as work based training.

There's a £50 deposit for the course with full course fees due 2 weeks before the course starts.

If you can't manage to pay for the course in full, it is possible to pay in instalments. There is a 10% additional fee for this.

Booking

To book a place, please fill in the online booking form

Please note that your place is not reserved until a deposit is received. Full payment info on the form.

If you have any further questions please contact James.

james@nonstuff.co.uk

07790 265883